

Partner with Job Corps to build the workforce you want.

The best employees are hardworking, motivated and ready to get to work on day one.

Let Job Corps' work-based learning program help.

What is work-based learning?

It's where students combine their education, career training and soft skills with hands-on experience at real companies like yours.

Partner with Job Corps to host students for an internship, project or volunteer work that allows them to learn firsthand where their career training can take them. It's a powerful opportunity for students to explore their career and for you to possibly meet your next great employee.

Job Corps is a national career training program administered by the U.S. Department of Labor. We train and educate eligible young people to gain the skills they need to find meaningful employment and start their careers. Our graduates go on to employment, apprenticeships, higher education or the military.

As an employer, how can you benefit?

As a work-based learning partner, you'll help train students for the positions you may be hiring for now or in the future.

Job Corps employability and soft skills

Timeliness

Awareness of appropriate work attire

Communication

Teamwork

Workplace relationships and ethics

Multicultural awareness

Personal growth and development

Through this program, students:

- ✓ Become more experienced, well-rounded employees.
- ✓ Gain skills needed to earn industry credentials, helping them stand apart from other job applicants.
- ✓ Put into practice employability skills through time spent with real employers and workplaces, making them strong team players and prepared for the workforce.

If you're interested in getting even more involved, talk to us about joining our Center Industry Council to give feedback and guidance on the training program.

We can help you figure out the right opportunity for your business.

Let's get started!
